

Susana Galle
CHC Director

Dr. Galle directs The Body-Mind Center in Washington, DC, and also conducts consultations in Cardiff by the Sea, CA. She holds a prescriptive license in NM. Her private practice career spans four decades. Having started as a clinical psychologist and neuroscientist, she is also a psychopharmacologist, with certifications in several psychology specialties. Dr. Galle is also qualified to practice other health professions, namely, clinical/metabolic nutrition, naturopathy, classical homeopathy, and Yoga therapy. A graduate of UC Berkeley, Yale, and Alliant IU (AIU), she serves on the faculty at major medical schools (GWU & Georgetown U. Pediatrics). She is on the adjunct faculty at NMSU and Alliant IU Postdoc programs in Psychopharmacology. She has been a visiting researcher and lecturer at the Psychosomatic Section of the University of Heidelberg (Germany). She also served as consultant to international organizations (PAHO & WHO).

Dr. Galle co-authored two books, and published articles in peer-reviewed journals as well as being on editorial Boards. She has been a media guest locally and abroad. She serves on the Board of Directors of several organizations, and is on the Scientific Advisory Board of Nutraceutical companies. Dr. Galle's psychosomatic consultation practice assesses the reciprocal influences between biochemical processes and mental/emotional ones in an individualized manner, with a holistic approach to health conditions. Dr. Galle views homeopathy as a highly effective catalyst of the healing process. She enthusiastically endorses the tenets and vision of CHC.
