

Susana Galle
CHC Director

Dr. Susana A. Galle, Director of The Body-Mind Center in Washington, DC, is a licensed professional practicing integrative care. She has four decades of clinical experience, also having co-authored books and published articles in peer-reviewed journals. She specializes in psychosomatics, and is qualified to practice several health professions. Dr. Galle works within a psychotherapeutic matrix that cultivates the doctor/patient relationship. She has a biopsychosocial and energetic model of health, with clients as active participants in the restoration of their own health, mental and physical.

Dr. Galle is a passionate advocate of homeopathy, which she views as a major catalyst of the healing process. She supports homeopathic education and practice within all health professions, as well as professional homeopathy.
